

This Man Remembered You in His Will

When James V. Brown died in 1904 he left a legacy to every resident of Williamsport and the surrounding area. That legacy was the James V. Brown Library. Since 1907 the library has provided free educational, cultural and recreational opportunities for every resident of Lycoming County.

Over the years, bequests and other testamentary gifts have played a major role in the development of the James V. Brown Library. Unrestricted bequests enable the James V. Brown Library to direct your gift to an area of our organization where it will have the most impact; however, you may also specify the area you would like to support by making a restricted bequest. Whichever you choose, your bequest may be made in a variety of forms.

How to Make a Bequest to the James V. Brown Library

A bequest can easily be established by having your attorney write an amendment to your current will. If you are writing a will, we urge you to consult your attorney or your financial advisor about specific language in accordance with your wishes.

Fixed Amount or Percentage of Estate

These gifts provide the James V. Brown Library with a predetermined amount or percentage of your estate. Percentage bequests are often preferred because they don't have to be altered as the size of your estate changes, or to adjust for inflation.

Personal and Real Property

You may support the James V. Brown Library by leaving a specific asset such as a parcel of land, your home or summer residence, a work of art, jewelry, a retirement account, or securities.

Residual

With a residual bequest, the James V. Brown Library receives a specific percentage share or the remainder of your estate after heirs are provided for and all expenses and debts are paid.
